FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

McIntosh sentenced in Criminal Sexual Conduct cases

Matthew Scott McIntosh was sentenced Monday, September 28, by Judge Shaun Floerke to a stayed 16 year prison sentence, including 15 years probation and lifetime registration as a predatory offender after the court accepted guilty pleas to First and Third Degree Criminal Sexual Conduct in two separate matters, County Attorney Mark Rubin said.

One of the offenses occurred in 2005 and was reinvestigated by the Duluth Police Department in recent years through the assistance of federal grant funding to audit cases with untested sexual assault kits.

The victims expressed their support for the sentencing terms and expressed satisfaction that McIntosh was not able to escape justice despite flaws in the system. "I was inspired by the courage and perseverance displayed by both victims," said Nathaniel Stumme, Head of the Criminal Division of the St. Louis County Attorney's office.
